THE SUBTWEET

A NOVEL

Vivek Shraya

"Biting and beautiful." — Jonny Sun, author of everyone's a aliebn when ur a aliebn too

Everyone talks about falling in love, but falling in friendship can be just as captivating. When Neela Devaki's song is covered by internet-famous artist Rukmini, the two musicians meet and a transformative friendship begins. But as Rukmini's star rises and Neela's stagnates, jealousy and self-doubt creep in. With a single tweet, their friendship implodes, one career is destroyed, and the two women find themselves at the center of an internet firestorm.

Celebrated multidisciplinary artist Vivek Shraya's second novel is a stirring examination of making art in the modern era, a love letter to brown women, an authentic glimpse into the music industry, and a nuanced exploration of the promise and peril of being seen.

VIVEK SHRAYA is an artist whose body of work crosses the boundaries of music, literature, visual art, theater, and film. Her bestselling book I'm Afraid of Men was heralded by Vanity Fair as "cultural rocket fuel," and her album with Queer Songbook Orchestra, Part-Time Woman, was nominated for the Polaris Music Prize. She is one half of the music duo Too Attached and the founder of the publishing imprint VS. Books. A five-time Lambda Literary Award finalist, Vivek has also received honors from the Writers' Trust of Canada and the Publishing Triangle. She is a director on the board of the Tegan and Sara Foundation and an assistant professor of creative writing at the University of Calgary.

- ✕ I'm Afraid of Men was an Indigo Staff Pick of the Month, received a starred review from Kirkus, and was featured in the Toronto Star, The Globe and Mail, Vanity Fair, and Bustle.
- ✕ A novel without any romantic relationships, focusing instead on the intimacy and rewards of female friendship.
- ✕ Book club discussion questions will be available.
- ✕ The Subtweet centers the voices and experiences of brown women.

The Subtweet takes the topic of online life and allows it to become simply part of the lives of its fully human, complex characters. What emerges is a deeply moving tale about the relationships between artists and friends. Biting and beautiful, it's written with heart by an essential voice.

So engaging. I can't think of anything I've read that has captured Twitter culture so well. There is something special in this book that really touches on the absurdity and pressure of social media and art. I couldn't put it down.

The Subtweet is a smart, funny, incisive, heart-crushing interrogation of art, race, friendship, social media, and the music industry. These characters and their self-destructive self-doubt are compelling, real, and vivid. I wanted to live-tweet my reading because I'm just obsessed.

MISCONDUCT OF THE HEART

A NOVEL

Cordelia Strube

Toronto Book Award Winner Cordelia Strube is back with another caustic, subversive, and darkly humorous book

Stevie, a recovering alcoholic and kitchen manager of Chappy's, a small chain restaurant, is frantically trying to prevent the people around her from going supernova: her PTSD-suffering veteran son, her uproariously demented parents, the polyglot eccentrics who work in her kitchen, the blind geriatric dog she inherits, and a damaged five-year-old who landed on her doorstep and might just be her granddaughter.

In the tight grip of new corporate owners, Stevie battles corporate's "restructuring" to save her kitchen, while trying to learn to forgive herself and maybe allow some love back into her life. Stevie's biting, hilarious take on her own and others' foibles will make you cheer and will have you loving Misconduct of the Heart (in the immortal words of Stevie's best line cook) "like never tomorrow."

- X On the Shores of Darkness, There Is Light received starred reviews from Quill & Quire and Publishers Weekly and won the 2016 Toronto Book Award.
- X Strube has been a finalist for every major Canadian literary award, including the Scotiabank Giller Prize, Governor General's Award, and Amazon.ca First Novel Award.
- X Strube's previous work is critically acclaimed by the New York Times Book Review, Newsday, all of Canada's national newspapers, and high-profile Canadian magazines like The Walrus and Chatelaine.
- X With a sharp, compassionate eye, Misconduct of the Heart tackles difficult and timely topics like PTSD, sexual assault, workers' rights, and corporate takeover.

P R A I S E

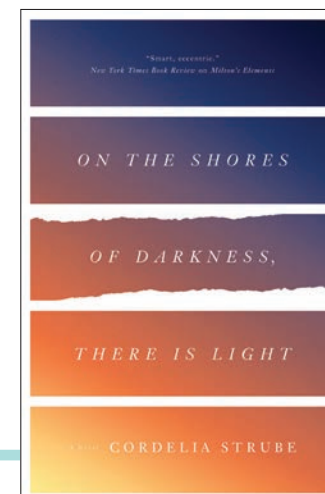

"Strube captures a madcap sense of momentum and consequence that never falters or overwhelms. Each character is part of Strube's deliberately constructed card tower, the building of which, as readers anticipate its eventual fall, provides the narrative with a tremendous amount of strength and personality."

— Publishers Weekly

"A masterful blend of comedy and tragedy . . . The tapestry of humanity that Strube presents is richly detailed and profoundly moving."

— Quill & Quire

"Strube is one of Canada's more expressive and creative prose stylists."

— Toronto Star

MOMENTS OF GLAD GRACE

A MEMOIR

Alison Wearing

“As a writer, Wearing is all luscious texture and running narrative.” — The Globe and Mail

Moments of Glad Grace is a moving and witty memoir of aging, familial love, and the hunt for roots and belonging. The story begins as a trip from Canada to Ireland in search of genealogical data and documents. Being 80 and in the early stages of Parkinson’s Disease, Joe invites his daughter Alison to come along as his research assistant, which might have worked very well had she any interest — any at all — in genealogy.

Very quickly, the father-daughter pilgrimage becomes more comical than fruitful, more of a bittersweet adventure than a studious mission. And rather than rigorous genealogy, their explorations move into the realm of family and forgiveness, the primal search for identity and belonging, and questions about responsibility to our ancestors and the extent to which we are shaped by the people who came before us.

Though continually bursting with humor, Moments of Glad Grace ultimately becomes a song of appreciation for the precious and limited time we have with our parents, the small moments we share, and the gifts of transcendence we might find there.

ALISON WEARING is the bestselling author of Confessions of a Fairy’s Daughter, an Indigo Top 50 pick shortlisted for the Edna Staebler Prize and longlisted for the RBC Taylor Prize, and Honeymoon in Purdah: An Iranian Journey. She teaches, performs solo multimedia plays, and leads writing workshops internationally.

EXCERPT

“Okay!” he says cheerfully, closing the paper and straightening up. “Let’s wander around and get lost and see what we find!”

I am about to stand up, but instead, I take a moment to conduct a small ritual I began after my son was born: the encircling of moments I wish to remember, moments I recognize as precious, ephemeral, worth gathering into an invisible mental archive, a psychic photograph album of sorts. The day my son turned one and created an oatmeal mural on the kitchen table with such boundless, limb-flexing, cackle-thick joy I wasn’t sure he would ever stop laughing; the sight of my mother’s sleeping face at dawn the day I realized she’d become an older woman, no longer the person — inexhaustible, available for everyone, always — I had held static until then; the view of my partner standing on the shore of Lake Huron in the wind with his arms outstretched, our son toddling up behind him and mimicking the posture, two creatures drying their wings together, baring their chests to the sky.

And this moment, right here, in the cafeteria of the National Library of Ireland, not because there is anything particularly special about this scene — “Let’s wander around and get lost and see what we find!” — but because I know how priceless it is, how casually precious. It’s so easy to rush to the next distraction, to gallop past quiet beauty, let life barrel past, and I don’t want to take anything for granted anymore, not even this small moment. I want to appreciate it all.

PRAISE FOR CONFESSIONS OF A FAIRY’S DAUGHTER

“Truth — even when it was brutal when first disclosed more than thirty years ago — becomes an interesting story with time. It becomes art that engages people; that makes them laugh; that resonates with their own untold stories. It can heal . . . In Confessions of a Fairy’s Daughter, Wearing deftly picks apart the complex knots of family — the love, the adventure, the myth, the hurt, the betrayal.”

— Sarah Hampson, The Globe and Mail

“This exquisitely written and deeply compassionate memoir tells the story of a family and a nation at a turning point in their sexual and political awakening. The scope of events and emotions may be operatic, but Alison Wearing captures them all in details that are intimate yet revealing, heartbreaking yet joyous. This is a book for every daughter who loves her father and for everyone who chooses to live (and love) openly and freely.”

— Kamal Al-Solaylee, author of Intolerable: A Memoir of Extremes

“Confessions of a Fairy’s Daughter had me in tears: first of laughter, then of sadness, then of wonder at life’s strange and marvelous fragility. It is a book both beautiful and true; about the longing for family and for home. Alison Wearing is a hugely talented writer.”

— Alison Pick, author of the Man Booker Prize-nominated Far to Go

TAKE BACK THE TRAY

REVOLUTIONIZING FOOD IN HOSPITALS, SCHOOLS, AND OTHER INSTITUTIONS

Joshna Maharaj

A beloved chef takes on institutional food and sparks a revolution

Good food generally doesn't arrive on a tray: hospital food is famously ridiculed, chronic student hunger is deemed a rite of passage, and prison meals are considered part of the punishment. But Chef Joshna Maharaj knows that institutional kitchens have the ability to produce good, nourishing food, because she's been making it happen over the past 14 years. She's served meals to people who'd otherwise go hungry, baked fresh scones for maternity ward mothers, and dished out wholesome, scratch-made soups to stressed-out undergrads. She's determined to bring health, humanity, and hospitality back to institutional food while also building sustainability, supporting the local economy, and reinvigorating the work of frontline staff.

Take Back the Tray is part manifesto, part memoir from the trenches, and a blueprint for reclaiming control from corporations and brutal bottom lines. Maharaj reconnects food with health, wellness, education, and rehabilitation in a way that serves people, not just budgets, and proves change is possible with honest, sustained commitment on all levels, from government right down to the person sorting the trash. The need is clear, the time is now, and this revolution is delicious.

DID YOU KNOW . . .

At the Scarborough Hospital, Joshna served a turkey lunch made from local ingredients for only $0.33 more than the hospital was already spending per plate.

A hospital bed in Ontario costs $842/day, but only $8-15 is allotted to food.

At The Stop Community Food Centre, Joshna served wholesome, delicious food for $1.85/plate.

The Greenbelt Fund's research confirmed that $1 spent locally turns into $2.14 that stays in our local economy.

A meta-analysis in Clinical Nutrition concluded between 6 and 65% of food served to patients is destined for the trash.

45% of people arrive in hospital malnourished, and malnourished patients are at a higher risk of readmission into the hospital in 30 days.

THE EIGHTH WONDER OF THE WORLD

THE TRUE STORY OF ANDRÉ THE GIANT

Bertrand Hébert and Pat Laprade

A definitive and exhaustive biography

Is there a way to find truth in the stuff of legend? You may think you know André the Giant — but who was André Roussimoff? This comprehensive biography addresses the burning questions, outrageous stories, and common misconceptions about his height, his weight, his drawing power as a superstar, and his seemingly unparalleled capacity for food and alcohol. But more importantly, The Eighth Wonder of the World: The True Story of André the Giant transports readers beyond the smoke and mirrors of professional wrestling into the life of a real man.

Born in France, André worked on his family's farm until he was 18, when he moved to Paris to pursue professional wrestling. A truly extraordinary figure, André went on to become an international icon and world traveler, all while battling acromegaly. While his disorder is what made him a giant and a household name, it's also what caused his untimely death at 46.

With exhaustive research, exclusive interviews with family and friends, and an exploration of André's amazing in-ring career and the indelible mark he left on pop culture, Laprade and Hébert have crafted the most complete portrait of a modern-day mythical being.

PAT LAPRADE has been involved in pro wrestling for more than 15 years. He was a field producer for HBO's critically acclaimed documentary André the Giant. With BERTRAND HÉBERT he co-authored Mad Dogs, Midgets and Screw Jobs and Mad Dog: The Maurice Vachon Story. Involved in pro wrestling for more than 25 years, Hébert also co-wrote Pat Patterson's biography, Accepted.

TOE BLAKE

WINNING IS EVERYTHING

Paul Logothetis

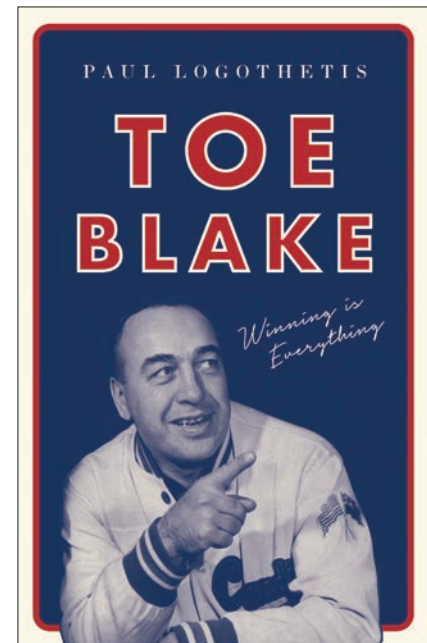

The first ever biography of Toe Blake — Hockey Hall of Famer and eleven-time Stanley Cup winner

"Holy Dirty Dora!" Hector "Toe" Blake would bark while pacing behind the Montreal Canadiens bench, hands thrust into his pockets, jawing at chewing gum before intentionally banging his forehead into the glass that separates players and fans. No lead was safe or sufficient for the lifelong hockey man at the helm of the greatest dynasty in NHL history. As a player, Toe won a Stanley Cup with the Montreal Maroons before captaining a stumbling Canadiens organization to glory and a pair of Cups. As the Habs coach, Toe cemented the team's status as lords of the league with eight more.

Born into a family of 11, Blake emerged from the poverty of the Depression and a youth spent working the mines of Sudbury's Nickel Belt to find junior hockey success and an unlikely shot at the NHL. While a fiery temper and penchant for stick-swinging nearly railroaded Toe's promise, the Canadiens recognized his talent and leadership, and he went on to spend more than 50 years with the organization.

History remembers Toe being hoisted onto the shoulders of his beloved players, waving his signature fedora and sipping from the Cup, but behind the success was a man driven by fear and an obsessive desire for victory. Despite personal tragedy, Toe always put winning first, and as a result, there are few coaches in any sport who have enjoyed Blake's success and even fewer who endured the toll that came with it.

PAUL LOGOTHETIS is a former Associated Press sports writer who contributes to The Guardian and Deutsche Press-Agentur. He spent over a decade reporting from the Olympics, F1, World Cup and Champions League finals while working as a correspondent in London and Madrid. He now lives in his hometown of Montreal.

ANTHEM: RUSH IN THE '70s

Martin Popoff

The definitive biography of the rock 'n' roll kings of the North

With extensive, first-hand reflections from Geddy Lee, Alex Lifeson, and Neil Peart, as well as from family, friends, and fellow musicians, Anthem: Rush in the '70s is a detailed portrait of Canada's greatest rock ambassadors. The first of three volumes, Anthem puts the band's catalog, from their self-titled debut to 1978's Hemispheres (the next volume resumes with the release of Permanent Waves) into both Canadian and general pop culture context, and presents the trio of quintessentially dependable, courteous Canucks as generators of incendiary, groundbreaking rock 'n' roll.

Fighting complacency, provoking thought, and often enraging critics, Rush has been at war with the music industry since 1974, when they were first dismissed as the Led Zeppelin of the north. Anthem, like each volume in this series, celebrates the perseverance of Geddy, Alex, and Neil: three men who maintained their values while operating from a Canadian base, throughout lean years, personal tragedies, and the band's eventual worldwide success.

MARTIN POPOFF has written more than 80 books, including three on Rush. He has also worked on various projects for Banger Films, including the award-winning Rush documentary, Beyond the Lighted Stage. Popoff has published more record reviews in books — approximately 7,900 — than anybody in history.

TED TEMPLEMAN

A PLATINUM PRODUCER'S LIFE IN MUSIC

Ted Templeman as told to Greg Renoff

Crafting smash hits with Van Halen, The Doobie Brothers, Nicolette Larson, and Van Morrison, legendary music producer Ted Templeman changed the course of rock history

This autobiography (as told to Greg Renoff) recounts Templeman's remarkable life from child jazz phenom in Santa Cruz, California, in the 1950s to Grammy-winning music executive during the '70s and '80s. Along the way, Ted details his late '60s stint as an unlikely star with the sunshine pop outfit Harpers Bizarre and his grind-it-out days as a Warner Bros. tape listener, including the life-altering moment that launched his career as a producer: his discovery of the Doobie Brothers.

Ted Templeman: A Platinum Producer's Life in Music takes us into the studio sessions of No. 1 hits like "Black Water" by the Doobie Brothers and "Jump" by Van Halen, as Ted recounts memories and the behind-the-scene dramas that engulfed both massively successful acts. Throughout, Ted also reveals the inner workings of his professional and personal relationships with some of the most talented and successful recording artists in history, including Steven Tyler and Joe Perry of Aerosmith, Eric Clapton, Lowell George, Sammy Hagar, Linda Ronstadt, David Lee Roth, and Carly Simon.

GREG RENOFF was born in the Bronx, grew up in New Jersey, and now lives in Tulsa, Oklahoma. He is the author of Van Halen Rising: How a Southern California Backyard Party Band Saved Heavy Metal. His writing has appeared in Guitar World, LA Weekly, and Vulture, and he and his work have been profiled in Salon, Maxim, and the Boston Herald.

THE AMBER GARDEN

THE ALCHEMISTS' COUNCIL, BOOK 3

Cynthia Masson

The stunning and beautifully crafted conclusion to The Alchemists' Council series

In Book Three of The Alchemists' Council trilogy, eternal conflicts between the Council and Rebel Branch escalate. Secrets about time-travel manipulation are revealed, uncomfortable truths about alchemical children are discovered, and Council dimension itself begins to disintegrate. Amidst this fallout, the Amber Garden dissolves, conjoined pairs suffer torturous separation, alchemists die in the process, and Cedar is banished to the outside world where she endures a living death within her conjoined partner.

Efforts of both alchemists and rebels to resolve the dissolution of Council and Flaw dimensions prove futile. People of the outside world experience ever-increasing political turmoil and the risk of environmental collapse. Mercifully, the alchemists have woven a thread of hope into an alchemically inscribed book, which they release into the outside world with the purpose of attracting new Initiates to Council. At first, Initiate Virginia appears to be a disrespectful interloper with whom Jaden loathes to work. However, their combined scribal efforts prove astoundingly powerful — so much so that they are sent through time to inscribe critical messages into ancient manuscripts. Events associated with one such manuscript lead Cedar to propose a solution to the dimensional fallout: all remaining alchemists must permanently vacate Council dimension.

CYNTHIA MASSON is a professor in the English Department at Vancouver Island University, where she teaches writing and literature courses. Her fiction includes The Elijah Tree, a novel combining theories of mysticism with issues of faith. Her recent trilogy, The Alchemists' Council, is anchored within esoteric mysteries of medieval alchemy.

THE PROXIMITY PARADOX

HOW TO CREATE DISTANCE FROM BUSINESS AS USUAL AND DO SOMETHING TRULY INNOVATIVE

Alex Varricchio and Kiirsten May

Traditional business structures love stability and predictability. Yet many organizations believe the two essential ingredients for long-term success are creativity and innovation. Kiirsten May and Alex Varricchio, founders of the marketing agency UpHouse, call the relationship between these two opposing expectations the Proximity Paradox™ — the belief that those who are closest to a subject are best-qualified to innovate for it, when, in reality, intense proximity limits creativity. Instead, people need to create distance from challenges in order to see the best way forward. May and Varricchio believe that until we can separate innovation and execution within ourselves, we will only innovate to the level at which we can execute the idea. To be effective, we need to create distance between our innovation brain and our execution brain.

Unpacking ten common Proximity Paradoxes that affect a company's people, processes, and industry, the authors share some practical ideas to create the distance necessary for your next great idea. An especially valuable book for creatives, and non-creatives in creative industries, but equally applicable to all businesses that depend on innovation, The Proximity Paradox encourages us to ask hard questions about how we work, how our businesses are structured, and why we routinely find our creativity at odds with what's asked of us as executors and stewards of the bottom line.

lost potential

execution ceiling

Fig 1: The difference between innovation and execution ceilings

Each of us has our own innovation ceiling and execution ceiling. Our innovation ceiling represents the extent to which we can think creatively. It's the highest reaches of our imagination and creative potential. It's pretty damn high. Our execution ceiling is much lower. It represents our threshold for delivery, our ability to take an idea, deliver it, and make it real and tangible. The execution ceiling height is determined by our skill set, timelines, budget, competing responsibilities, and physical and emotional energy. These are the challenges to which we are in close proximity. Until you can separate innovation and execution within yourself, you will only innovate to the level at which you can execute the idea. To be effective, we need to create distance between our innovation brain and our execution brain.

THE CASE FOR CLIMATE CAPITALISM

ECONOMIC SOLUTIONS FOR A
PLANET IN CRISIS

Tom Rand

A call for the Left and Right — the business community and environmentalists, bankers and activists — to join together, reclaim capitalism, and force profits to align with the planet

A warming climate and a general distrust of Wall Street has opened a new cultural divide: anti-market critics from Naomi Klein to the Pope target capitalism itself as a root cause of climate change, while neoconservatives who diminish the climate threat are in favor of market fundamentalism.

Rand argues that both sides in this emerging cultural war are ill-equipped to provide solutions to the climate crisis, and each is remarkably naïve in their view of capitalism. On one hand, we cannot possibly transition off fossil fuels without the financial might and entrepreneurial talent market forces alone can unlock. On the other, without radical changes to the way markets operate, capitalism will take us right off the climate cliff.

Rejecting the old Left/Right ideologies, Rand develops a more pragmatic view capable of delivering practical solutions to this critical problem. A renewed capitalism harnessed to the task is the only way we might replace fossil fuels fast enough to mitigate severe climate risk. If we leave our dogma at the door, Rand argues, we might just build an economy that survives the century.

TOM RAND is a recognized thought leader and public speaker on the necessity and economic upside of a rapid, global transition to a low-carbon economy. Tom is managing partner of ArcTern Ventures, a new father, sits on a number of boards, and finds it hard to believe we're still having this conversation. He is the author of Kick the Fossil Fuel Habit (2010) and Waking the Frog: Solutions to Our Climate Change Paralysis (2014).

FROM HIRE TO INSPIRE

HOW TO BECOME THE BEST BOSS

David Lahey

A blueprint for becoming the best boss you can be

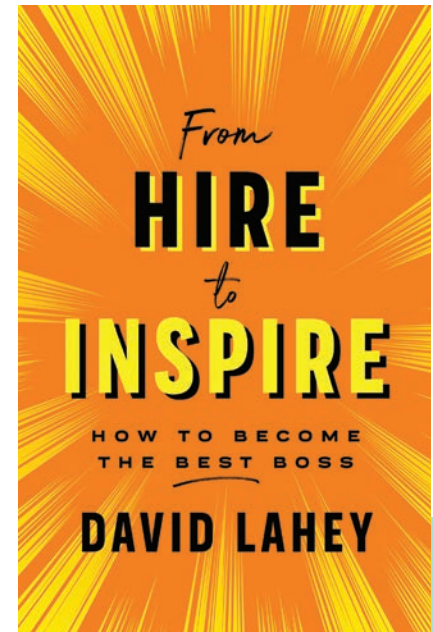

North Americans work 90,000 hours in their lifetime. Wouldn't they enjoy working in a job they love, with a boss who energizes them? David Lahey's From Hire to Inspire can help make that happen. With advice for all types of companies, From Hire to Inspire is a road map to becoming a better boss — maybe even the best boss — and to helping your employees achieve their potential.

Using a new set of behavioral science analytics, Lahey shows you how to determine what types of work different people will find fulfilling. When leaders use these principles to put the right people in the right positions at the right time, employees spend less energy adapting, their engagement levels improve, and they are less absent at work, which results in an increase in productivity and lower accident levels.

Set your employees up for success in both work and life by learning how to adapt to a changing workplace, the science of decision making, how to coax the most from a millennial workforce, the influence social media has on a culture, how to maintain a respectful environment where leaders can flourish, and more.

When your staff excels and grows, your company grows too.

DAVID LAHEY has been specializing in leadership development, talent acquisition, change management, and productivity improvement for over 25 years across a variety of industries. He is an executive coach and consultant to more than 500 of Canada's Best Managed Companies. Lahey has been a master certified Predictive Index® Analyst since 1988 and received his training by Predictive Index Boston Headquarters. He lives and works in Whitby, Ontario.

GIDEON'S BIBLE

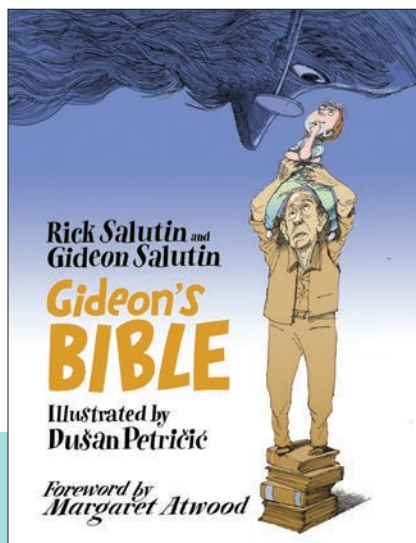

Rick Salutin and Gideon Salutin
Illustrated by Dušan Petričić
Foreword by Margaret Atwood

A singular exploration of the Hebrew Bible, playfully illustrated by renowned cartoonist and illustrator Dušan Petričić

Gideon's Bible is a conversation between Rick Salutin, and his son, Gideon. It begins with Gideon as a child, asking why he was given his name. Rick says it's from the Bible and Gideon asks, "What's the Bible?"

Although the conversations portrayed in the book span all the years of Gideon's life, most of them occurred during his more recent years in high school. The book consists of 64 wildly illustrated colour pages. It is modeled on classical Jewish biblical commentaries, in which biblical text is surrounded by analysis that has been written over centuries and that explores both the text itself and the conversations that surround each passage. In Gideon's Bible, biblical text is framed with striking illustrations and caricatures of Rick and Gideon as they relate to the passage and discuss subjects like God, parenting, current concerns of youth, literature, friends, and formative experiences that each of them have had.

RICK SALUTIN is a playwright, novelist, and journalist who has received awards in all these areas. He wrote a weekly column for The Globe and Mail for 20 years and now provides weekly columns and videos for the Toronto Star. GIDEON SALUTIN grew up in downtown Toronto without a religious upbringing or bar mitzvah. Instead, he learned the Bible's major stories through talks with his dad. In 2019, he founded the Contemporary Review of Genocides and interned with the United Nations. He attends McGill and carries a camera everywhere. DUŠAN PETRIČIĆ is a Serbian illustrator and caricaturist who has lived in Canada for more than 20 years. He has illustrated numerous children's books and his cartoons and illustrations have appeared in various newspapers and magazines from Politika to The New York Times, the Wall Street Journal, Scientific American, and the Toronto Star.

MUSIC LESSONS

Bob Wiseman

Bob Wiseman believes most things in life are universal, or, as his friend Joe once said, everything is everything. Bearing in mind this fortune cookie advice, Wiseman writes about finding the link between music and daily tasks, like teaching a five-year-old "Twinkle, Twinkle" and doing the dishes each night. Bob writes daily, the way someone else might practice scales; although his sense of the instrument and the musician has changed over the years, Bob adheres to doing exercises that have wider connections than whether the strings are in tune. Each entry is unique and compellingly written, but the themes throughout — on improvisational music, life lessons, and conflict — are ubiquitous.

BOB WISEMAN likes having fun. He was on CNN lying about wanting to change his name to Prince; he played accordion on "If I Had a Million Dollars" by the Barenaked Ladies; he produced Kid in the Hall Bruce McCulloch's "Shame-Based Man"; he was the composer for The Drawer Boy, winner of the 2018 Best Feature Film at the Canadian Film Awards; and Odetta took his hands in hers and kissed them after hearing him play prepared piano at the Bitter End on Earth Day 2000. He was also a founding member of Blue Rodeo but quit in the early '90s when he no longer found it fun.

ARTISTIC GLASS

ONE STUDIO & FIFTY YEARS OF
STAINED GLASS

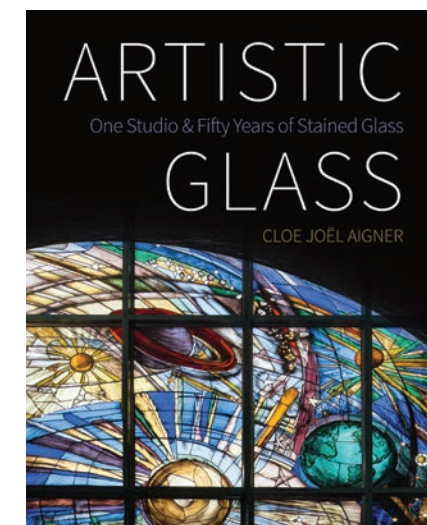

Cloe Joël Aigner

Celebrating 50 years of a master craftsman

Arts and crafts help define a culture; they reflect people's values, beliefs, and the things they hold dear. Artistic Glass: One Studio & Fifty Years of Stained Glass is the first of its kind: a full-color large format art book contextualizing the history of stained glass in Canada and showcasing the life and work of Josef Aigner, an artist and master craftsman whose 50-year career has had a lasting impact on the Canadian art landscape.

Written and photographed by the artist's daughter, Cloe Aigner, Artistic Glass presents a visually stunning showcase and unique insight into the world of stained glass. Celebrating the mastery, innovation, and skill underlying the art form, Artistic Glass illustrates the diverse use of age-old and contemporary techniques behind the projects and reveals the processes of the artist, lifting the veil from this ancient craft. One of Canada's most pervasive public forms of art, stained glass is a tradition worth acknowledgment and celebration.

CLOE JOËL AIGNER has worked in media and marketing for over a decade. She holds a bachelor's degree in social sciences and communications, and a master's degree in education from Simon Fraser University. She works as a college instructor, an integrative body psychotherapist, and teacher. Cloe's artistic upbringing and training in her father's stained glass studio was formative. She has many creative pursuits and has self-published two children's books, with Artistic Glass being her largest book project to date.

POSTMARK BERLIN

A MYSTERY

Anne Emery

The latest mystery from a two-time winner of the Arthur Ellis Award

Father Brennan Burke is struggling, and he's been coping the only way he knows how: self-medicating with drink. He's barely managing, but his troubles intensify when the body of one of his parishioners washes up on the coast of Halifax.

Meika Keller came to Canada after escaping past a checkpoint in the Berlin Wall. An army colonel is charged with her murder, and defence lawyer Monty argues that Meika's death was a suicide, which is the last thing Father Burke wants to hear. Guilty of neglecting his duties as a priest when Meika needed him most, Brennan feels compelled to uncover whatever instigated her cry for help and led to her death.

The story takes us from the historic Navy town of Halifax, Nova Scotia, to the history-laden city of Berlin, as Brennan and his brother Terry head to Germany in search of answers. And while Brennan will stop at nothing to find what, or who, is responsible for Meika's death, nothing could have prepared the priest for the events that unfold.

ANNE EMERY is a lawyer and the author of the Collins-Burke mystery series, set in Halifax, Cape Breton, Ireland, London, and New York. She has won two Arthur Ellis Awards, an Independent Publisher Book Awards silver medal, and the Dartmouth Book Award for Fiction.

"Halifax lawyer Anne Emery's terrific series featuring lawyer Monty Collins and priest Brennan Burke gets better with every book."

— The Globe and Mail

"True to the Irish tradition of great storytelling, this is a mesmerizing tale full of twists that will keep readers riveted from the first page to the last."

THOUGH THE HEAVENS FALL

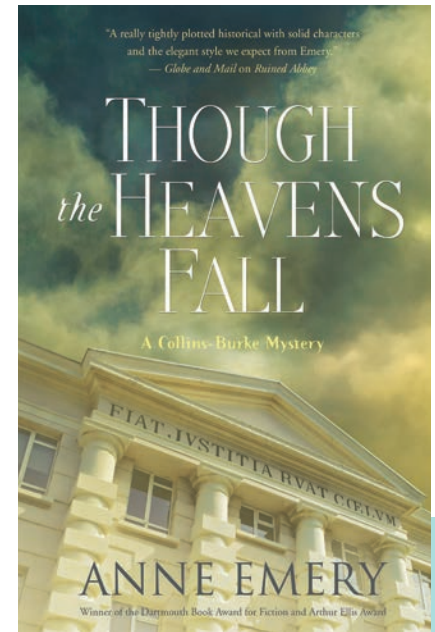

A COLLINS-BURKE MYSTERY

Anne Emery

Winner of the 2019 Arthur Ellis Award for Best Crime Novel

As 1995 dawns in the North of Ireland, Belfast is a city of army patrols, bombed-out buildings, and "peace walls" segregating one community from the other. But the IRA has called a ceasefire. So, it's as good a time as any for Monty Collins and Father Brennan Burke to visit the city: Monty to do a short gig in a law firm, and Brennan to reconnect with family. And it's a good time for Brennan's cousin Ronan to lay down arms and campaign for election in a future peacetime government.

But the past is never past in Belfast, and it rises up to haunt them all: a man goes off a bridge on a dark, lonely road; a rogue IRA enforcer is shot; and a series of car bombs remains an unsolved crime. The trouble is compounded by a breakdown in communication: Brennan knows nothing about the secrets in a file on Monty's desk. And Monty has no idea what lies behind a late-night warning from the IRA. With a smoking gun at the center of it all, Brennan and Monty are on a collision course and will learn more than they ever wanted to know about what passes for law in 1995 Belfast. An inscription on a building south of the Irish border says it all: "Let justice be done though the heavens fall."

RUNNING FROM THE DEAD

A CRIME NOVEL

Mike Knowles

"Combining the intense grit of Richard Stark's Parker series with the amorality of Jim Thompson's work, Knowles once again delivers." — Publishers Weekly, starred review of Rocks Beat Paper

Private detective Sam Jones's six-year search for an eight-year-old boy ends with gunshots in a basement and cold bodies that would eventually lead the police straight to him. Jones had never promised Ruth Verne that he would find her son alive, but he knew deep down that she believed he would — worse, he had believed it too. Jones wasn't ready to look Ruth in the eye and tell her he had failed. He wasn't ready to admit that he lost everything and had nothing to show for it.

But an unsigned note scrawled on a bathroom door gives Jones a second chance — a chance for redemption. Thirteen words left by a young girl in trouble give him someone to chase and a reason to keep moving before the cops move on him. Jones follows the trail from an idyllic small town to the darkest corners of the city, running from the boy he failed toward the girl he could still save.

MIKE KNOWLES lives in Hamilton with his wife, children, and dog. He has written seven previous novels: Darwin's Nightmare, Grinder, In Plain Sight, Never Play Another Man's Game, The Buffalo Job, Rocks Beat Paper, and Tin Men.

BITTER PARADISE

A DR. ZOL SZABO MEDICAL MYSTERY

Ross Pennie

Fans of Bones and Coroner will love Dr. Zol Szabo, a doctor who is out to solve medical mysteries before it's too late

After weeks of torture at the hands of Syria's secret police, the bombing of his villa in the ancient city of Aleppo, and the murder of his daughter, trauma surgeon Dr. Hosam Khousa flees his fractured homeland with his wife and son. They make their way to Canada as refugees, where Hosam is forced to trade his prestigious scalpel for a barber's humble clippers. Though he aches to regain his once-prominent surgical career, cutting hair in Hamilton, Ontario, seems a safe way to make a living, until a fellow Syrian is slashed to death in the barbershop. The ensuing gangland vendetta entangles Hosam and threatens his family.

At the same time, epidemic investigators Dr. Zol Szabo and Natasha Sharma are battling an outbreak of vaccine-resistant polio that has struck the city with terrifying fury. When Hosam visits a friend clinging to life in the intensive care unit, he spots something that might help the investigation but will ruin his chance of retaking his place in the operating theater. The Great White North is not the sanctuary he expected, but it's a bitter paradise he must learn to navigate.

MISSION ROAD

A FRANK YAKABUSKI MYSTERY

Ron Corbett

From the Edgar Award- and Arthur Ellis Award-nominated author of Ragged Lake comes the third installment in the Frank Yakabuski series

In the final scene of Cape Diamond, millions of dollars' worth of diamonds went missing, which is where Ron Corbett's latest novel begins. When rumors spread that they were buried on Mission Road, an old logging trail outside the town, people swarm to the area, setting up temporary camps and searching for fortune. But when a known murderer shows up, the real mystery begins.

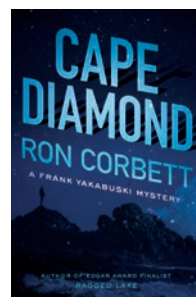

Detective Frank Yakabuski must juggle a 21st-century diamond rush, killers on the run, and his ex-cop dad, in this third book in the series.

RON CORBETT is an author, journalist, and broadcaster living in Ottawa. He is the author of seven nonfiction books; his first novel, Ragged Lake, the first book in the Frank Yakabuski mystery series, received rave reviews and an Edgar nomination by the Mystery Writers of America for Best Original Paperback. KILL ALL THE LAWYERS

William Deverell

"A bitingly funny whodunit." — Maclean's

Arthur P. Besterman, criminal lawyer and reformed alcoholic, was the first to go. Counsel to Vancouver's assorted shifters and grifters, Besterman almost always lost his cases. But a recent victory defending a low-life client might be a clue as to why he was bludgeoned to death with a baseball bat. Then when someone takes a pot shot at philandering lawyer Brian Pomeroy after he successfully defended a group of controversial eco-terrorists, people start to take notice. All of a sudden, lawyers whose clients are less than savoury start second-guessing the ethics of their profession, and going to court becomes a possible bloodsport.

WILLIAM DEVERELL was a journalist for seven years and a trial lawyer for 25, as defender or prosecutor in more than a thousand criminal cases, including 30 murder trials. The author of over 20 novels, Deverell has won the $50,000 Seal First Novel Prize and the Book of the Year Award, the Dashiell Hammett Award for literary excellence in crime writing in North America, as well as two Arthur Ellis Awards for best Canadian crime novel. His work has been translated into 14 languages and sold worldwide. He lives on Pender Island, B.C.

RIVEN

Catherine Owen

Winner of the Stephan G. Stephansson Award for Poetry

In 2010, Catherine Owen's 29-year-old spouse died of a drug addiction. A year later, she relocated to an apartment by the Fraser River in Vancouver, B.C. As she moved beyond the initial shock, the river became her focus: a natural, damaged space that both intensifies emotion and symbolizes healing. In a sequence of aubades, or dawn poems, Owen records the practice of walking by or watching the river every morning, a routine that helps her engage in the tough work of mourning. Riven (a word that echoes river and means rift) is an homage to both a man and an ecosystem threatened by the presence of toxins and neglect. Yet, it is also a song to the beauty of nature and memory, concluding in a tribute to Louise Cotnoir's long poem The Islands with a piece on imagined rivers. While Designated Mourner honors grief, Riven focuses on modes of survival and transformation through looking outward, and beyond.

CATHERINE OWEN was raised in Vancouver and lives in Edmonton. She has published 15 collections of poetry and prose. Dear Ghost was nominated for the Pat Lowther Award and won the Alcuin Prize. Locations of Grief, her memoir anthology, is also forthcoming.

To the Artist of 21st-century Canadian Nature Painting

No, you can't stop me from believing in beauty.
My only grief that I cannot give you the vision entire — even if I were the sweet brooding painter of the Algonquin

I wouldn't be able to gift you with this river, its silver twists, the slow shallows of minnows and light, the way tugs in dark knots shepherd booms to the bridge past mangled rebar dancing in its moored concrete chunks, the sandbar littered with swallow prints and the eagle who slips back to its nest with the dripping wiggle of a vole in its talons, just above the grey-roofed shipyard, banked by green and gold barges and men who know how to leap.

No, even if I were shy, wild Tom Thomson with his colour-hyphenated boards and cast-iron eggs camping by Canoe Lake that last summer in war-time, I wouldn't be able to capture the particular, ragged wonder of this gorgeous, polluted river moving in all its histories past us, the ruined sawmill haunting with creosote and the persistent singing of crickets and the Starbucks detritus and the watery receptions of stars.

MISCREATIONS

POEMS

Grant Loveys

Winner of the Newfoundland and Labrador Arts & Letters Award and the Cuffer Prize for Fiction

Miscreations, the second collection by Grant Loveys, mulls over the metaphorical concept of miscreation — how people, objects, and relationships are imperfectly designed by their various creators — through the use of direct, visceral language, and frank, sometimes shocking, imagery.

Unconcerned with aesthetic imperfections, Miscreations focuses instead on how people and situations can be created from unstable, often opposing, elements and examines how these people and situations manage to survive. This is poetry that looks beyond a misprinted shirt and deep into the person wearing it . . . beyond empty memes and Instagram platitudes and into the complicated, flawed and searching human readers who navigate a world that is often at odds with itself.

GRANT LOVEYS's Our Gleaming Bones Unrobed was The Globe and Mail Readers' Pick for the best poetry collection of 2012. He lives in Mount Pearl, Newfoundland and Labrador.

- X "Lovely and strange, promising plenty of poems that are 'half drunk on moonlight / like froth from a dish of freezing milk' — while staying quiet and intimate, drawing the reader in with a conversational tone and the promise of future intimacy." — The American Reader on Our Gleaming Bones Unrobed
- X Recipient of the 2019 Newfoundland and Labrador Arts & Letters Award.
- X Winner of the 2011 Cuffer Prize for Fiction.

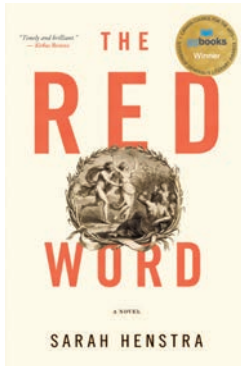

Elsewhere

At midnight the shopping mall is dark except for one glass walled porch lit with mortuary fluorescence.
Inside two drunks pirouette with a cardboard woman.
Their dilated shadows stretch
like columns of smoke over the parking lot.

I interrupt their dance — one drunk removes his hand from a cardboard breast.
They have bent her head back with kisses.
It flops crudely between her corrugated shoulderblades, between the two points where wings would have burst from her back had she been an angel.

In the morning, the sun unfurls
over the shopping mall and a woman's cardboard head rises from the gutter, caught in the wake of a passing bus — a spirit radiant and lost and looking for a host.

ECW HIGHLIGHTS

The Red Word
by Sarah Henstra
978-1-77041-424-2

Winner of the 2018 Governor General's Literary Award for English-Language Fiction

"Timely and brilliant."
— Kirkus Reviews

Midlife Action Figure
by Chris Banks
978-1-77041-505-8

"Midlife Action Figure delivers surprise, delight, and sense; Banks slams sly one-liners as though he were competing in a professional wrestling match . . . The result is breathlessly entertaining and gut-punchingly wise . . . Midlife Action Figure is an insightful tour through the human experience, crafted in clear and specific imagery that captivates the imagination and the intelligence. It is a book that begs to be read and reread."

The Accidental Veterinarian
by Philipp Schott
978-1-77041-480-8

Translated into Polish, Russian, and Hungarian

"Few books . . . approach the combination of fine writing, radical honesty, and endless optimism found in Winnipeg practitioner Schott's . . . Laugh until you cry — and believe, as he says, that all that really matters is that the heart of the pet (and its owner) is pure."

The Godmother
by Hannelore Cayre
978-1-77041-543-0

"Exuberant . . . Readers will be anxious about the fate of the forthright, sympathetic Patience up to the final page. It's no surprise that this novel won the Grand Prix de Littérature Policière, France's most prestigious award for crime fiction."

— Publishers Weekly

How a Poem Moves
by Adam Sol
978-1-77041-456-3

"This unassuming book provides a great public service — it removes the shroud of mystery that hovers between too many readers and the world of poetry . . . Sol deserves to be read widely and freely; his humble witness to the simple art of reading may be this book's most important gift. Libraries should have multiple copies."

The Call of the Rift: Flight
by Jae Waller
978-1-77041-354-2

"[A] stunning debut . . . An intricately lush and well-crafted new fantasy that deserves (and demands) a sequel."

— Kirkus Reviews

Home Ice
by Angie Abdou
978-1-77041-445-7

"The author brings a novelist's eye to the story, telling it in first-person present tense; with its sharp characterizations and dialogue in place of autobiographical exposition, the book is a first-rate memoir and a fine example of narrative nonfiction. It's also a must-read for parents with youngsters who play organized sports."

Moon of the Crusted Snow
by Waubgeshig Rice
978-1-77041-400-6

National Bestseller

Women's National Book Association Great Group Reads Selection, 2019

"Rice's third fiction release has received rave reviews and is a gripping and deeply meaningful read."

— Chatelaine Books of the Year

"This slow-burning thriller is also a powerful story of survival and will leave readers breathless."
— Publishers Weekly

No Good Asking
by Fran Kimmel
978-1-77041-438-9

Hoopla Book Club Pick

Women's National Book Association Great Group Reads Selection, 2019

Cannes International Film Festival invited guest

"Kimmel's novel has only a few characters, but they all possess presence and depth and experience honest changes. The strong sense of place serves as an additional relationship for the characters to negotiate."

— Library Journal

Land Mammals and Sea Creatures
by Jen Neale
978-1-77041-414-3

Nominated for the Rogers Writers' Trust Fiction Prize

"With light touches of magical realism and vivid descriptions of the Canadian seaside, Neale's haunting tale reminds us that our lives are bound to others' in both restricting and deeply comforting ways . . . A wholly original and stunning debut."
